The ability to measure your communications allows you to track whether compliance requirements have been fulfilled. Get compliance reporting for any segment of your workforce and evaluate the impact of compliance communications.

A REAL-WORLD EXAMPLE

SocialChorus Helps a Large Oil & Gas Company Stay Compliant and Reduce Risk

One of the world's largest oil well completion companies had to navigate stringent compliance requirements.

Already committed to a high level of safety, teams of employees on its drilling rigs and wells were required to take time and sign off—every day—on the “safety tip of the day.” Managers collected signatures manually and processed each one individually, sometimes by mail or fax. The company needed a modern, streamlined compliance tool.

SocialChorus enabled their team members to sign off on compliance documents in real time and set up automatic notifications to leadership. This new approach saved valuable time, allowed for a more streamlined and efficient workflow, and provided transparency into the entire compliance process. Most importantly, the company decreased its liability.
